OMAHA.

Thursday Morning, May 3.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

A council of churches met on the 30th ult., and reorganized the Congregational church, of Arlington, Neb. It includes in its membership several of the prominent business men and leading citizens of the town. Rev. Benjamin F. Diffenbacher, of Louisville, became their pastor. He is building a residence intending to make his home with the people.

The steamer "Black Hills," which has been expected up from St. Louis for several days past, left Plattsmouth at 2 p. m. yesterday, and will arrive in Omaha this morning, having no doubt tied up at some point along the river bank during the night. It will take on a large amount of freight at Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Contractor Grant, who is engaged in the paving of Douglas street, has sent east for a small five ton roller, to be used in rolling the surface. The heavier roller will be used on the basement work. He thinks that he will complete the paving of Douglas street by the first of June.

There were three divorce cases begun yesterday in the district court, viz: Charles Grow vs. Katie Grow, on the ground of adultery; O'Mara vs. O'Mara for desertion and Margaret Fleming vs. Mitchell Fleming for failure to support.

Attention Sir Knights of Mt. Calvary commandery No. 1, K. T. You are requested to appear at the assembly this (Thursday) evening, at 7 o'clock, in full dress uniform. By order the commander, H. R. Hathaway, recorder.

A regular April storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, began shortly before midnight last night.

Barney McAuley appears at the opera house, Friday and Saturday, in "Uncle Daniel" and the "Jersey Man."

Tuesday, May 1, was the thirty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mayor Chase and his late deceased wife.

A little two-year-old child was picked up Tuesday by the police, and was identified last in the evening by J. Rothbols, the Tenth street merchant.

The work of excavating for the foundations of the new English Lutheran church on Harvey street was commenced at 1 o'clock yesterday.

It is rumored that Omaha is to be the northern terminus of the postal telegraph system now being constructed. This will be another boom for the Gate city.

At the revival in progress in a South Omaha church, the preacher last evening called upon all present who wished to be saved from hell fire to hold up their hands. All present showed up except the coal heavers. Business is business always.

The report of the public schools last week shows an attendance of 87 teachers, an average membership of 3,989 pupils, a percentage of attendance of 92.5, and 288 cases of tardiness.

S. N. Meadlo, manager of the Academy of Music, has gone to Chicago to book companies for the remainder of this season and for next season. He expects to meet with good success.

Today is "the ascension day. There will be a full morning service at Trinity Cathedral (Episcopal) with a sermon at 11 a. m. Offerings for city mission work.

General C. H. Frederick is on the war path and has captured a strong fortress near the corner of Fourteenth and Farnam, where he is strongly entrenched behind a stack of hate a mile high. "There's nothing like strategy, my boy!"

The peculiar-looking fish caught recently in the strainer which protects the section of pipe at the water works on the river bank proved to be a lamprey eel. It is still in the possession of Hon. B. E. Kennedy.

The heavy rain which fell Tuesday interrupted the work of paving on Douglas street considerably. It did not effect the block now being laid with granite, but a large lake formed on the south side of Farnam and Tenth streets.

A collector who was out on his travels yesterday had his hand raised to knock at the door of one of his victims when he saw the paraphernalia of death there. He concluded to call again. This proves that the collector is a respecter of the man who rides the pale horse, if not one else.

The court of curbing and guttering the streets about to be paved was let Tuesday to Hugh Murphy & Co. for $1,623 per lineal foot, or 93 cents for curb and 69 cents for a 24 foot gutter. P. Collins stone is the material for the curb and Eriahm stone for the gutters.

The city marshal and some of his force who step down and out have already begun to dust their brass buttons and other insignia of office, and are hardly recognizable by their friends. They all hold over until their successors are duly qualified; that is, have filed their bonds and had them approved. This will give Marshal Angell another week at least, and the new members of the force will not get in much sooner.

Omaha is daily assuming a more metropolitan air in the way of manufactures. The jewelry store of Mr. John Baumer is being refitted, and among the various fixtures may be seen an elegant new upright show case, which, in the way of artistic finish and general make up, is far superior to anything of the kind ever before seen in Omaha. This was made at the show case factory of Mr. O. J. Wilde, Nos. 1313, 1315, 1317 Cass street, where all kinds of work in this line is carried on under the supervision of Mr. Wilde, who thoroughly understands his business, which is constantly growing.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Grand Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year.

WAITING FOR THE VERDICT.

The Entertainment at Boyd's Opera House Last Night.

"Waiting for the Verdict" was played last night at the opera house, to a large and appreciative audience. From the beginning right through to the end it kept the audience in a state of enthusiasm, and seldom have the walls of the opera house resounded with such marks of approbation as were given last night, even if it were our amateur troupe. Most of the old characters were here again in their reproduction, and the steady go of each act, without a hitch, showed that the members, one and all, had gone through a short but painstaking study. To enumerate each character would more fully give those ladies and gentlemen their credit for their grand performance, but each and every one contributed their share to the success so well merited by them. Jonathan Rasmussen (Jasper's father) was most carefully and aptly rendered by W. Turtle, a performance which we don't often find, even with professionals. And his own Jasper, as played by Charles McDonald, was a most scientific and masterly piece of acting, and one that was worthy of our own townsmen, and we heartily say a word of praise for Charles. I. H. Daniels in the part of Lori Elmore, did well, especially in the woods scene. Leontine was taken by J. J. Neill, a careful study had made that of the leading parts. Mac, as the heavy villain, was immense, and took the house by storm, he being on hand with his shooter, and after this the boys will give Mac a wide berth. E. A. O'Brien, as Jonas Hundie, was a splendid piece of acting, and as aside to Mac furnished those bits of villainy so needed, and not tied up in tissue paper either. W. O. Sanders, in the part of Blinky Brown, was splendid comedy and furnished the comic dressing that was needed to keep the audience up to a certain pitch for the splendid and well depicted tableaux. C. White, as the country parson, J. C. Chaney, as Sir Henry Harrington, and the Counsel Stanley, were nicely played. Grafton, as the defendant's counsel, was really a lawyer, and added materially to the success of the trial scene. Courtier, servant, gamekeeper, were all an efficient body. And last, but not least, we come to the ladies. Mrs. Elliot, as Jasper's wife, acted and sang her part nobly and aided in those touching scenes which were perceptibly noticed in the audience. Mrs. Geo. Shields, as Sarah Sawyer, was a splendid piece of acting and showed up the love of woman in all her ennobling traits, and in the words of Blinky, "There's nothing like it."

A DIAMOND SOLITAIRE.

The Police Force Give the Marshal a Surprise.

When the night force of the police appeared at the police court rooms last evening for roll call, Judge Bane entered, and calling the attention of those present he addressed City Marshal Angell, saying:

I have the pleasure of being delegated by the officers of the police department and by his other friends to present Marshal Angell with a token of our esteem and respect, on the occasion of his handing over his official star and resignation of office. If he failed to climb the golden stairs certainly he did not fail to climb the stairs of far greater value, leading to the esteem and respect of his brother officers and of the officers associated with him in his official capacity. If he has failed to perform every duty of his office to the satisfaction of all of the people of the city I should have considered it more through an unfortunate combination of circumstances and the large responsibility of the office that not one out of a hundred of the citizens understood or appreciated. Whatever the opinion of the public was in regard to the manner in which Marshal Angell performed the duties of his office, he has made friends among the men under his charge and among the men who had any dealings with him. We, every one of us, who present this token of remembrance are his friends, whether he is in or out of office.

Judge Bane then presented the retiring marshal with a heavy gold ring set with a diamond solitaire, a gift of present and ex-city officers and the police force.

Marshal Angell, to whom it was a genuine surprise, was greatly surprised and nervous for a moment, but rallied sufficiently to express his sincere thanks and to invite all present to partake of refreshments.

Army Orders.

Leave of absence for one month with permission to apply for an extension of two months, granted Second Lieutenant John Baxter, Jr., Ninth Infantry, the leave to take effect upon the arrival of his company (H. Ninth Infantry) at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo.

The following correspondence is published for the information of the command: Referring to the application of the Commanding Officer Company A, 22d Infantry, for authority to expend 5,000 rounds of ammunition in excess of the allowance of 20 rounds per man per month, in order to test the new 28 inch rifle, forwarded by endorsement of April 4, 1883, from your headquarters, I have the honor to inform you that the secretary of war authorizes the issue of all the ammunition necessary for the test of the new arms, to the companies having them, in addition to the usual allowance for target practice.

Referring to your endorsement of the 16th inst. submitting for consideration certain communications in reference to the non-commissioned staff and bands of regiments taking part in target practice; I have the honor to inform you that the general of the army directs that every enlisted man be taught the use of the rifle, and made to attend target practice, but all questions in regard to the extent of the instruction of non-commissioned staff and bands, in rifle practice, the hours, plans of practice, etc., should be determined by post and department commanders.

THAT SHIPWRECK.

Further Details of the wreck of the Peterson.

Capt. W. A. Van Orman, master and owner of the steamer "Peterson," which was wrecked on the second pier of the Union Pacific bridge Monday, called at the office and furnished some additional particulars concerning the affair.

The work of constructing the boat was begun last fall and continued through the winter, being superintended by himself. The boat was designed to tow rafts, haul wood and take out hunting and fishing parties. Competent judges pronounced it one of the prettiest models they had ever seen, and the owner expected to reap a good profit from his investment, the entire cost of the boat being only about $500.

On Monday at 1 o'clock all was ready for the start on the trip. Van Orman had made inquiries for a good engineer, and upon the recommendation of several had hired a man supposed to be first-class. He says, however, that he was no good and left the boat with but twenty-five pounds of steam on, an amount wholly inadequate to stem the raging torrent of the Big Muddy. Capt. Van Orman was at the wheel and the engineer was the only other passenger on the ill-fated vessel.

The Peterson left the bank nicely until she got her nose off, when Van Orman called to the engineer to "give it to her." Put on steam! The boat commenced drifting up the river, and when the engineer replied that he would, the throttle was already wide open. Van Orman then looked at the gauge and saw that there was but twenty pounds of steam on. He knew he was "a gone goner" then, and told the engineer to get ready to jump, at the same time halting the boat and asking the engineer to send out boards, which he says they did not do at once.

The steamer struck the side of the pier first, knocking off her gunwale and bounded back. She then struck it a second time and capsized. When the captain saw the water rushing in and the engine tumbling out he jumped for the pier but fell in the drift wood and was twice pulled under, but finally swam clear of it and had nearly reached the shore when Charles West came out with his boat. He told him to "never mind me" but go to the rescue of the engineer, who was clinging to the pier and who he knew could not swim. West, however, pulled Van Orman in to his boat, and meantime a Dane near by shot a skiff out and rescued the engineer, so that all arrived safely on the shore, after narrowly escaping death.

The boat went into a thousand pieces, and only a few wheels and bits of machinery were collected. Mr. Van Orman expects to commence work on another steamer soon. Tuesday, after the rain, the water rose and carried off his last small boat, valued at $25, so that he has nothing left at all now navigating in.

A BRILLIANT SCHEME.

The electric Light Supercooled Sunlight.

Mr. E. L. Eaton, the photographer, is busy putting in the electric light in his art studio on Farnam street, not for illuminating purposes, but to take photographs by the new light as well as by daylight. This is no enterprise of one city and a novel one. The light will be on tonight, and Mr. Eaton will be ready for business. The experiment has proven a success in all the great cities of the east, and will no doubt be equally so in Omaha.

SARATOGA.

Items of News From Our Suburban City.

At last we have evidence that our school board is alive, in the fact that the fence which surrounds the school property stands perpendicularly ("By your works are ye known") and we have promise of new seats for the school room, and that the artist's brush shall adorn the building at the close of the present session.

Hon. James H. Kyner is expected home in a few days from Idaho, where he will find his family occupying the old Pratt place, which, by the way, is one of the most delightful residence places in the suburbs of Omaha, owing to the sale of the Canfield property to McKee, the photographer, who is to be congratulated on securing so fine a property in so good a locality.

At the benefit concert, Friday evening, chairs will be used to increase the seating capacity of the house, which indications show will be required. The gentlemen composing the triple quartette are:

First Tenors—Jay Northrup, F. S. Smith, A. J. Vankar.

Second Tenors—W. B. Wilkins, A. D. Morris, W. L. Welch.

First Basses—O. P. Daniel, Edw. S. Ruff, Allen Jackson, Dave Wells.

Second Basses—C. K. Cralle, H. W. Snow, C. Schmidt.

CHECKOO.

NELLIE BURKE.

The Omaha Equestrienne Coming to Give an Entertainment Here.

Miss Nellie Burke, the lady who started out from this city as an equestrienne, and has achieved a national reputation in the ring, is coming to Omaha shortly to give an exhibition in horseback and chariot riding. She is traveling with a company of which she is the central figure, and will engage the driving park for the show. Among other attractions will be a race, mile heats, between herself and a new star, who hails from Texas, has just entered on her first season and claims to be able to outstride any woman on earth.

There will also be a grand Roman chariot race, with two or four horses, and a hurdle race, mile dash, over four hurdles, with four starters. Miss Burke is so well known in this part of the country that she will no doubt be greeted with a large crowd.

SEWER OBSTRUCTIONS.

The Obstacles Which are Giving the Waring System a Bad Name.

There has been considerable complaint and fault finding of late as to the working of the Waring system of sewers, and many were ready to predict that it would prove a fraud.

The trouble has been largely owing to the carelessness of persons who should have known better. For instance, after a long search a huge paving stone was discovered in the sewer at Twelfth street, near Gray's printing house. Yesterday two bricks wrapped in cloth were discovered and removed in the same locality. It is claimed that both these obstructions are traceable to a drain layer and there will no doubt be some trouble if the gully party is found out.

The big sewer in North Omaha became clogged yesterday and Street Commissioner Meany found that it was choked up by a stump which had washed into it. The stump was hauled out with the aid of a cable and the blockade raised successfully.

A MIDNIGHT BLAZE.

A Long Run After an Undiscoverable Fire.

About midnight last night an alarm was turned in from box 26, B. & M. freight house and a great blaze which lighted up the southern sky indicated that a big fire was in progress somewhere.

All the apparatus in the department turned out and despite the desperate condition of the streets made the run to the U. P. depot, from which the fire seemed as far away as ever and the chase was given up.

Some few of the firemen went as far south as Hickory street and still saw no signs of the burning mass. Half of those who made the run fell into unprotected places on the streets and it is a wonder someone was not killed.

The fire was no doubt in La Platte or Bellevue, and the heavy rain and storm which fell when the flames were highest must have quenched it.

POLICE PICKINGS.

Disposition of Several Important Cases.

The hearing of the case of J. Adams, alias Reynolds, the alleged confidence man, came up in police court Tuesday afternoon, the charge against him being "suspicious character." The prisoner at first demanded a jury trial, but afterwards consented to be tried by the court. No evidence was offered by the defendant, who was found guilty as charged, and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs, amounting to $11.55, and also to serve thirty days in jail. He took an appeal, and his bonds were fixed at $500, bail being readily given.

D. Van Meter, charged with resisting an officer, obtained a jury trial, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to the court, as a punishment for the court's services as light a punishment as possible. Judge Baneke fined him $10 and costs, amounting to $9.90, and sentenced him to one day's imprisonment in the county jail.

The trial of John Green and nine others, arrested for trespass and riot at the bank, will come up next Monday at 10 o'clock a. m.

William Martin, a 14-year old lad arrested some days ago for stealing a bolt of lace from Crickshaw & Co., was arrested again yesterday by Hans Timm for stealing a lot of goods from Tom Murray. It is claimed by Timm that he found in the boy's possession six hats, two caps, a belt for cartridges, a carving knife and fork and some other articles. If the charge is proven the boy will probably be sent to the reform school. It is also claimed that there is a gang of these boys leagued together and engaged in a wholesale raid on the neighborhood, but that all but Martin escaped.

IONS OF TOCOCO.

A May Party in the Business for One of Our Omaha Firms.

The reduction of eight cents per pound on tobacco tax went into effect Tuesday. Retail dealers throughout the country have lately been buying very lightly so as to have as little stock on hand May 1st as possible. Our enterprising firm, Paxton & Gallagher, conceived the idea of having an enormous stock of all popular brands in this market, so as to be ready to ship promptly, the very large orders they had had sold for delivery May 1st.

Tuesday and yesterday morning their shipping room was filled up with plug and smoking tobaccos, which were being shipped as fast as their wagons could haul them to the depots. To give our readers an idea of the enormous consumption of the refreshing and stimulating weed we give the number of butts and pounds shipped by Paxton & Gallagher Tuesday and yesterday.

900 butts, Climax, 28 pounds each, manufactured by P. Lorillard & Co.; 400 butts, Horse Shoe, 24 pounds each, manufactured by Drummond tobacco company; 400 butts, Star and other brands, 24 pounds each, manufactured by Liggett & Myers, and 500 boxes meerschaum and old style smoking, 50 pounds each, made by Catlin tobacco company, making a total of about 45,000 pounds of plug or chewing tobacco and about 25,000 pounds smoking, both kinds aggregating in money value close to $30,000.

H. G. CLARK & CO. make a specialty of manufacturing Syrups and Extracts for soda fountains, and guarantee their goods equal to any in the market. 25 north 10th street.
